THEME OF WORSHIP

The 24 year old Retiree

Rookie player Chris Borland just finished his first year playing football in the NFL. He was considered one of the best defensive rookies in the league and the future seemed bright for him. Even though his future as an NFL pro looked good, Borland has decided to retire from football. He cited a few past injuries combined with the ongoing research into the long term effects of concussions on football players, as well as a desire to pursue other passions he has — including his family and quality of life. "I think I'd have to take on some risks that, as a person, I don't want to take on." Our culture has trouble making sense of the choice to trade fame and money for "intangibles," like, you know, health, happiness, and personal well-being. Where are our priorities? What are the things we value? Are we willing to trade what we think we want for the things that give us life?

Health Nugget

Free InStepforLife mobile apps are available for Android and iPhone.

You must register on the website (www.adventistsinstepforlife.org/) before using these apps. The app allows you to track your exercise, stay up-to-date with InStep news and events, and report miles toward the Let's Move Day goal.

This website offers information on how to develop an Adventists InStep for Life team that can plan and implement a strategy that works for your organization; information for carrying out the primary NAD goals of promoting physical activity, hosting a summer feeding site and starting a community garden; ideas for churches, schools, universities and health care organizations; and more.

Adventists InStep for Life was created by the North American Division of the Seventh-day Adventist Church to assist Adventist churches, schools and health care organizations in tackling the challenge of childhood obesity. Every conference, church, school, university and health care organization in the North American Division is encouraged to form an Adventists InStep for Life team to coordinate activities that inspire healthy eating and physical activity and further awareness of childhood obesity in their community
